

2nd Alpe-Adria Symposium for Diagnostic Cytology

This seminar and workshop is aimed at veterinary practitioners who would like to improve and expand their diagnostic cytology skills and at residents in their early cytology training.

Presentations by various experts, video microscopy and individual microscopy are all included in this ten hour symposium. The general principles of cytologic diagnosis, various preparation artefacts, differentiating neoplasia from inflammation; as well as the practical interpretation of examples of common cases will be covered.

Participants will also have the opportunity to practice various sampling, preparation and staining techniques under expert guidance in a two hour workshop.

All lectures will be in English.

The number of participants is limited to 50.
